e: gveritas@gmail.com t/i: @CivitaVeritas w: gabrieladenisefrank.com

A Pushcart Prize-nominated writer of essays and fiction, Gabriela's work contemplates identity, gender, aging and the built environment. Off the page, her installations and performances transform storytelling into experience. In 2014, she staged A Novel Performance, a month-long performance installation in Seattle's Central Library. In 2015, she performed UGLY ME, a multi-media spoken word installation in the New Media Gallery at Jack Straw Cultural Center.

An alumna of Artist Trust's EDGE Development program for literary artists, her work is supported by grants, residencies and fellowships from 4Culture, Jack Straw, Vermont Studio Center, Mineral School, the Civita Institute and Invoking the Pause.

GRANTS

4Culture Individual Artist Grant / 2015

I was awarded a $2,500 grant for the development and performance of Ugly Me, a multi-media sound installation at Jack Straw New Media Gallery.

4Culture Individual Artist Grant / 2014

I was awarded a $3,500 grant for the development, installation and performance of A Novel Performance, a literary art installation performed at Seattle's Central Library.

Invoking the Pause: Creative Collaboration for Climate Change / January 2009 to March 2012

In partnership with six collaborators known as CityLab7, I was awarded three grants totaling approximately $20,000 for the conceptualization, development and implementation of an urban mushroom farm.

INSTALLATIONS

UGLY ME - Seattle, WA / July - August 2015

This spoken word installation installed at Jack Straw New Media Gallery explored the interplay between appearance and self-worth through the medium of The Selfie. I composed and recorded twelve original poems which played as an audio backdrop to a series of comical personal images and large-scale typographic collage.

INSTALLATIONS (CONT'D)

A Novel Performance - Seattle, WA / November 2014

As a novelist in residence at Seattle's Central Library, I transformed National Novel Writing Month (NaNoWriMo) into a live performance. Each day, visitors watched via a large screen as I wrote the first draft of a novel (71,355 words) in a month.

Mushroom Farm - Seattle, WA / March 2012

This urban agriculture installation involved the design, construction and operation of a storefront mushroom farm in which we grew oyster mushrooms using reclaimed coffee grounds from local cafes.
